DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communication filed 6/21/04.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's argues (remarks page 11 lines 4-6) Enomoto does not disclose forming an image template that contains both the correction intensity and a corrected image. This argument is not because it is the position of the examiner Enomoto does disclose an image template that contains both correction intensity and corrected image (note fig. 4, blocks 60 and 60a make up said template, wherein intensity establishing section is correction intensity and correction intensity storing subsection stores corrected images).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless —

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claim 1-3, 5-7, 10-12, 17-20, 22-24, 27-29, 34-37, 39-41, 44-46 and 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Enomoto (6,313,902).

Regarding claims 1, 12, 18, 29, 35 and 46 Enomoto discloses,

Forming an image template containing a first edited image (note fig. 4 block 60a, stores edited image) and a selected record of at least one image editing operation, said image editing operation having been performed on a first image (note fig. 4 block 60 and col. 21 lines 7-12, correction intensity establishing section is the template containing a selected record of image editing operation of an image) to obtain said first edited image (note col. 21 line, examiner interprets image output as print as first edited image);

Applying said image template to at least one second image (note col. 8 lines 58-62, input can be uses for plurality of input images)

Regarding claims 2, 19 and 36 Enomoto discloses,

Storing selected record of at least one image editing operation with first edited image in an image file (note col. 21 lines 17-22, correction information and output image can be stored).

Regarding claims 3, 20 and 37 Enomoto discloses,

Storing selected record at least one image editing operation in a storage file separate from said first edited image (note col. 21 lines 7-9 and 21-22, correction information is stored in memory separate from the outputted corrected image).

Regarding claims 5, 22 and 39 Enomoto discloses,

Image editing operation further comprises enhancing color characteristics of said first image (note col. 15 lines 30-36, sharpness correction enhances color characteristics).

Regarding claims 6, 23 and 40 Enomoto discloses,

Image editing operation further comprises modifying brightness characteristics of said first image (note col. 12 lines 23-30, cites a unit that adjust brightness).

Regarding claims 7, 24 and 41 Enomoto discloses,

Image editing operation further comprises modifying luminosity characteristics of said first image (note col. 15 lines 52-55, examiner interprets decreasing luminosity as modifying luminosity characteristics).

Regarding claims 10, 17, 27, 34, 44 and 51 Enomoto discloses,

Receiving said at least one image editing operation from a user (note col. 12 lines 39-40).

Regarding claims 11, 28 and 45 Enomoto discloses,

Retrieving an image from a database module and transmitting said first image to a user (note col. 21 lines 20-22, examiner interpret memory of large capacity as database module, operator can obtain (retrieve)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 4, 21 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Enomoto in view of Rissman (6,552,743)

Regarding claims 4, 21 and 38 Enomoto is silent disclosing,

Image editing operation comprises cropping an image. However, Rissman includes cropping an image in editing operation (note col. 5 lines 36-39)

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skills in the art to include cropping an image in an editing operation in the system of Enomoto as evidenced by Rissman. Enomoto reproduce images of photographed image and performs correction based on said image. Rissman in the same field of endeavor, system is inexpensive and efficient performing editing operations, which include cropping.

7. Claims 8-9, 25-26 and 42-43 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Enomoto in view of Suzuki (5,019,858).

Regarding claims 8, 25 and 42 Enomoto is silent disclosing,

Applying image effect on a first image. However, Suzuki applies image effect on a first image (note col. 2 lines 63-68).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skills in the art to apply image effects in the system of Enomoto as evidenced by Suzuki. Enomoto system reproduces image with color components. Suzuki in the same field of endeavor applies effects to color components separating and adjusting color components obtaining accurate correction quantities (note col. 2 lines 29-35).

Regarding claims 9, 26 and 43 Enomoto and Suzuki discloses,

Wherein said image effect is a filter (note col. 2 lines 63-68).

8. Claims 13-16, 30-33 and 47-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Enomoto in view of Katayama et al (5,982,951).

Regarding claims 13, 30 and 47 Enomoto is silent disclosing,

Combining said second edit image with said first image to form an output image. However, Katayama combines edited images to form an output (note fig. 4 block 6 in connection with col. 4 lines 44-47, combines images to form an output single image).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skills in the art to combine images in the system of Enomoto as evidenced by Katayama. Enomoto produces first and second edited images. Katayama in the same field of endeavor teaches and efficient technique combining plurality of edited images such that boundaries are inconspicuous (note col. 1 lines 51-54).

Regarding claims 14, 31 and 48 Enomoto and Katayama discloses,

Transmitting said second edited image to a user (note Enomoto col. 21 lines 23-26, Reprint is transmitted to an operator).

Regarding claims 15, 32 and 49 Enomoto and Katayama discloses,

First edited image and second edited image further include a plurality of identical image characteristics (note Katayama col. 4 lines 25-30 and 40-44, lines cite identical and same characteristics such as color and position).

Regarding claims 16, 33 and 50 Enomoto and Katayama discloses,

Further comprising transmitting said output image to a user (note col. 12 lines 39-40).
